

Mardy Mar

Bio

Mardavius Knight, known on the streets as "Mardy Mar", is eager to share his love for music with the world. As a young boy, being tossed from one foster home to another, Mardy Mar ironically first found his love for music in the church. At the side of his foster-father, David Pounds, Mardavius learned to play drums at a young age and later found a passion for rap in his early teens.

As an alternative to the violence, vulgar language, disrespect, promiscuous behavior and ultimate legal rap sheets that threaten to wipe out their future, Mardy Mar is on a personal mission to make songs that encourage the youth to push hard in school, set positive goals, and graduate. Unlike other traditional rap artists who elaborate (or lie) about having stacks of cash, fast cars, many women, and drugs, Mardy Mar creates music that is positive and meaningful, laced with true life experiences that he has faced. He likes to make songs that are motivating and easy to inspire others when they are down.

Mardy Mar, the solo artist with a Non-Profit "New Music Entertainment" (aka NME) is well on his way to seeing his dreams come true. He has posted a number of YouTube videos, published a jingle for Zaxby's, and has recently released his first album titled "New Music Entertainment" on iTunes, Amazon, and Beats Music. Mardy Mar believes that if he can reach just one young teen and help him/her to make a choice to do good rather than bad, then his work was well worth it.
